

Zebrafish

Notable for research in:

- Regeneration
- Embryology
- Genetics

This little fish is an important model system to study the function of genes during embryogenesis, regeneration, and many other biological processes. Their transparent embryos develop in fresh water and allow scientists to study the link between genes and their embryonic function.

Zebrafish

Notable for research in:

- Regeneration
- Embryology
- Genetics

This little fish is an important model system to study the function of genes during embryogenesis, regeneration, and many other biological processes. Their transparent embryos develop in fresh water and allow scientists to study the link between genes and their embryonic function.

Zebrafish

Notable for research in:

- Regeneration
- Embryology
- Genetics

This little fish is an important model system to study the function of genes during embryogenesis, regeneration, and many other biological processes. Their transparent embryos develop in fresh water and allow scientists to study the link between genes and their embryonic function.

Zebrafish

Notable for research in:

- Regeneration
- Embryology
- Genetics

This little fish is an important model system to study the function of genes during embryogenesis, regeneration, and many other biological processes. Their transparent embryos develop in fresh water and allow scientists to study the link between genes and their embryonic function.

Zebrafish

Notable for research in:

- Regeneration
- Embryology
- Genetics

This little fish is an important model system to study the function of genes during embryogenesis, regeneration, and many other biological processes. Their transparent embryos develop in fresh water and allow scientists to study the link between genes and their embryonic function.

Zebrafish

Notable for research in:

- Regeneration
- Embryology
- Genetics

This little fish is an important model system to study the function of genes during embryogenesis, regeneration, and many other biological processes. Their transparent embryos develop in fresh water and allow scientists to study the link between genes and their embryonic function.

Zebrafish

Notable for research in:

- Regeneration
- Embryology
- Genetics

This little fish is an important model system to study the function of genes during embryogenesis, regeneration, and many other biological processes. Their transparent embryos develop in fresh water and allow scientists to study the link between genes and their embryonic function.

Zebrafish

Notable for research in:

- Regeneration
- Embryology
- Genetics

This little fish is an important model system to study the function of genes during embryogenesis, regeneration, and many other biological processes. Their transparent embryos develop in fresh water and allow scientists to study the link between genes and their embryonic function.

Zebrafish

Notable for research in:

- Regeneration
- Embryology
- Genetics

This little fish is an important model system to study the function of genes during embryogenesis, regeneration, and many other biological processes. Their transparent embryos develop in fresh water and allow scientists to study the link between genes and their embryonic function.

Study them all!

Study them all!

Study them all!

Study them all!

Study them all!

Study them all!

Study them all!

Study them all!

Study them all!

